WTO's recent ruling against India to impact top Chinese handset makers' local manufacturing

World Trade Organization's ruling against India's import duty imposition on mobile phones and telecommunications equipment has the potential to more than halve the local manufacturing by top Chinese players that are not part of the government's production-linked incentive scheme, industry experts said. A WTO panel recently ruled that India had violated global trade rules after the European Union challenged the levy of 7.5% and 15% import duty imposed since 2017 on a wide range of IT products, including mobile phones (where the duty was further raised to 20%) and components to curb imports in a bid to increase domestic production. Now, India may have to reverse the duties imposed on these products to zero. New Delhi does have the recourse of an appeal.

India talks tough on Russian oil imports, says will look for best deal

India will explore buying Russian crude oil near or past the price cap imposed by the G-7 as it navigates external risks it sees as the biggest economic threat. "Yes, because otherwise I'll end up paying far more than what I can afford," Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman said in an interview Saturday in Washington, when asked if India would continue importing Russian oil beyond the $60-a-barrel price cap. "We have a large population and we also therefore have to look at prices which are going to be affordable for us." The stance underscores the pressing need in the country of 1.4 billion people to curb inflation and spur growth amid a surprise output cut by OPEC+ and western sanctions to rein in Russia's oil revenue following the invasion of Ukraine. India, along with China, has emerged as one of the key buyers of Russian crude. It is now India's top supplier, above Iraq and Saudi Arabia. The South Asian nation needs to constantly look for the "best deal" since it imports.

India needs to be export competitive to capture overseas market for surplus milk

According to Mr. Chand, a country cannot be export competitive if it is unable to compete with imports and this issue is crucial for the future growth of the dairy industry in India. India has already emerged as the largest milk-producing nation in the world, and if it has to capture overseas markets for its surplus milk, then the country must be export competitive, Niti Aayog member Ramesh Chand has said. Mr. Chand in a working paper further said India's dairy industry has been opposing any free trade agreement that involves liberalisation of trade (import) in dairy products. "However, if we have to capture overseas markets for disposal of the future surplus of milk in the country then we must be export competitive. "Being export competitive requires higher competitiveness than competing with imports," he said. According to Mr. Chand, a country cannot be export competitive if it is unable to compete with imports and this issue is crucial for the future growth of the dairy industry in India. While noting that the dairy industry must prepare for channelising some domestic production to overseas markets, he suggested that it is better if it is done after processing various products rather than liquid milk alone. "This will require some change in investment in the dairy industry, including the value chain. India can also tap some high-end markets if it can address milk quality and livestock health," he said. The goal and vision of the dairy industry for the next 25 years should be to make India the largest exporter of dairy products, Mr. Chand suggested.. "This is a tall order but, looking at the past achievements of the dairy sector, it looks attainable though challenging," he opined. Exports are less than 0.5 per cent of the total domestic milk production. World dairy export in 2021 was valued at $63 billion, whereas India's export was only $392 million (0.62 per cent). Mr. Chand pointed out that the recent data on milk output shows an annual growth rate of 5.3 per cent. It is important to mention that the growth rate in milk production accelerated after 2005, when the emphasis shifted from exotic breeds to indigenous breeds. Per capita milk production in India has now exceeded the recommended dietary level, as suggested by NIN-ICMR, which is 377 grams per person per day.

Imports of laptops, PCs, medical devices, solar cells from China falls

The fall in imports is notable in electronic items where the PLI (production linked incentive) scheme is operational, the report by Global Trade Research Initiative (GTRI) said. India's imports of electronic goods such as laptops, personal computers (PCs), integrated circuits, and solar cells from China declined during 2022–23, according to a report by economic think tank GTRI. The fall in imports is notable in electronic items where the PLI (production linked incentive) scheme is operational, the report by Global Trade Research Initiative (GTRI) said. Imports of medical equipment declined 13.6 per cent to USD 2.2 billion last fiscal year as compared to 2021–22. Similarly, import of solar cells, parts, diodes slumped 70.9 per cent to USD 1.9 billion in 2022–23. The report stated that import of laptops, PCs slipped 23.1 per cent to USD 4.1 billion and that of mobile phones came down by 4.1 per cent to USD 857 million in last financial year as compared to 2021–22. Inbound shipments of integrated circuits contracted by 4.5 per cent to USD 4.7 billion. Imports of urea and other fertilizers declined 26 per cent to USD 2.3 billion in 2022–23.

Why India's Net Exports Have Fallen While It Fails to Overcome Import Dependence

The broader economic policy landscape under the current regime seems to be plagued by an environment of intellectual bankruptcy. India's net exports fell by over 12.7% to $34.66 billion this April. This is one of the steepest declines in the country's export levels over the last three years and the trend (if it continues) is likely to have major implications for the nation's already troubled growth story. India's manufacturing sector's performance, which otherwise contributes to vital exports and private investment growth, has struggled to pick up. This, despite a greater impetus provided by the government's capex spending aimed at encouraging more private investment in areas of infrastructure, realty, etc. The broader economic policy landscape under the current regime seems to be plagued by an environment of intellectual bankruptcy that is adversely affecting its macro-economic policy making and implementation of governance mechanisms.

India, Russia crossed bilateral trade target of USD 30 billion before 2025, it is expected to increase

External Affairs Minister Dr S Jaishankar today said that India Russia partnership is a subject of attention and comment today because it has not changed. Addressing the India-Russia Business Dialogue 2023 in New Delhi this afternoon, Dr Jaishankar underlined that it has been among the steadiest of the major relationships of the world in the contemporary era. Russian Deputy Prime Minister Denis Manturov was also present on the occasion. The External Affairs Minister stressed the need to address the trade imbalance. He said that India and Russia have crossed the bilateral trade target of 30 billion dollars before the target year of 2025. He pointed out that these new volumes have created a

The External Affairs Minister spoke about the importance of connectivity initiatives. He said the International North-South Transport Corridor as well as the Eastern Maritime Corridor, which is the Chennai-Vladivostok Corridor, are being given due consideration. He said the payments issue clearly needs to be worked through and it will be discussed during the Inter-Governmental discussions tomorrow. He mentioned the expansion of the correspondent relationship network, under the scheme of International Trade Settlement in Indian Rupees through the Special Rupee Vostro Account system. Russian Deputy Prime Minister Denis Manturov, who is also the Trade Minister on Monday said that they are discussing a free trade agreement, FTA, with India. Mr Manturov said that India and Russia pay special attention to the issues of mutual access of production to the markets in the two countries. He said that Russia and Eurasian Economic Commission are looking forward to intensifying negotiations on a free trade agreement with India.

He said the payments issue needs to be worked through, and it will be discussed during the Inter-Governmental discussions. He mentioned expanding the correspondent relationship network under the scheme. India and Russia are discussing a free trade agreement to guarantee investment between the two countries, said Russia's deputy prime minister Denis Manturov, speaking at an event in New Delhi with India's foreign minister S Jaishankar on Monday.

US-India Bilateral Trade Plays Key Role In Addressing Shared Challenges In Global Economy

The US-India trade relationship is crucial and bilateral trade plays a key role in addressing shared challenges in the global economy, US Ambassador to India Eric Garcetti said here on Friday. "The #USIndiaTrade relationship is crucial, and bilateral trade plays a key role in addressing shared challenges in the global economy. I look forward to focusing on strengthening trade ties & advancing our economic relationship," the US Ambassador tweeted on Friday. India-U.S. bilateral relations have developed into a "global strategic partnership", based on shared democratic values and increasing convergence of interests on bilateral, regional and global issues. The emphasis placed by the Government in India on development and good governance has created opportunity to reinvigorate bilateral ties and enhance cooperation under the motto --- "ChaleinSaathSaath: Forward Together We Go", and "SanjhaPrayas, Sab ka Vikas" (Shared Effort, Progress for All) adopted during the first two summits of Prime Minister Modi and President Obama in September 2014 and January 2015 respectively. The summit level joint statement issued in June 2016 called the India-U.S. relationship an "Enduring Global

Partners in the 21st Century". Regular exchange of high-level political visits has provided sustained momentum to bilateral cooperation, while the wide-ranging and ever-expanding dialogue architecture has established a long-term framework for India-U.S. engagement. Today, the India-U.S. bilateral cooperation is broad-based and multi-sectoral, covering trade and investment, defence and security, education, science and technology, cyber security, high-technology, civil nuclear energy, space technology and applications, clean energy, environment, agriculture and health. Vibrant people-to-people interaction and support across the political spectrum in both countries nurture our bilateral relationship. The frequency of high-level visits and exchanges between India and the U.S. has gone up significantly of late. Prime Minister Modi visited the U.S. on 26-30 September 2014; he held meetings with President Obama, members of the U.S. Congress and political leaders, including from various States and cities in the U.S., and interacted with members of President Obama's Cabinet. He also reached out to the captains of the U.S. commerce and industry, the American civil society and think tanks, and the Indian-American community. A Vision Statement and a Joint Statement were issued during the visit. "It was so inspiring to see the work of this mission and to feel the strength of the United States and India relationship. More Indians come to the United States as students than students from any other country. Last year, India became number 1 and I don't see that changing ahead in the future. I see that relationship at the very top of how we articulate our values of welcoming not just Americans to higher education but to opening that door to people worldwide," the envoy said.. "One out of every 5 US students visa was issued here in India in 2022.

Unpaid Invoices: Overcoming the Financial Struggle for Exporters

ARTICLE BY

Ms. TEHRIM MULLA
EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR - AECCI

Exporters play a vital role in global trade, but they often face the daunting challenge of dealing with unpaid invoices. Unresolved payment issues can significantly impact exporters' cash flow, hinder business growth, and create financial instability. This article explores common challenges exporters face with unpaid invoices and highlights how the Asian Exporters Chamber of Commerce and Industry (AECCI) can provide valuable solutions.

Late Payments and Cash Flow Challenges:

Exporters frequently encounter delays in receiving payments from international buyers. This delay in cash flow can disrupt operational activities, hinder investment plans, and limit the ability to fulfill new orders. Additionally, it may lead to increased borrowing costs and financial strain on exporters.

Currency Fluctuations and Exchange Rate Risks:

Exporters face currency risks when dealing with international trade. Fluctuations in exchange rates can affect the value of unpaid invoices, leading to potential losses or reduced profitability. This volatility adds an extra layer of uncertainty for exporters awaiting payment.

Introduction

Exporters play a vital role in global trade, but they often face the daunting challenge of dealing with unpaid invoices. Unresolved payment issues can significantly impact exporters' cash flow, hinder business growth, and create financial

Payment Disputes and Legal Complexities:

Unpaid invoices can result from payment disputes, non-compliance with contractual terms, or other legal complexities. Resolving these disputes can be time-consuming, expensive, and may require legal intervention. Lack of Trust and Creditworthiness: Exporters often lack familiarity with international legal systems, making it challenging to recover their dues efficiently.

Lack of Trust and Creditworthiness:

Exporters may encounter buyers who exhibit a lack of trustworthiness or have a poor credit history. It becomes increasingly difficult for exporters to assess the creditworthiness of potential buyers, especially in unfamiliar markets. This lack of trust further exacerbates the risk of unpaid invoices.

Potential Solutions:

Robust Credit Management:

Implementing a comprehensive credit management system is crucial for exporters. This includes conducting thorough due diligence on buyers, obtaining credit reports, and establishing credit limits based on risk assessment. Regular monitoring of buyers' payment behaviors and creditworthiness can help mitigate the risk of unpaid invoices. AECCI addresses the issue of trust and creditworthiness through our business advice wing. We provide valuable insights and assessments of potential buyers' creditworthiness, helping exporters make informed decisions when extending credit. Our consultancy services guide exporters in building trust-based relationships with buyers and minimizing the risk of unpaid invoices.

Clear Contractual Agreements:

Exporters should ensure that their sales contracts contain clear and enforceable payment terms, including deadlines, currency clauses, and penalties for late payments. Clearly defining the consequences of non-payment can act as a deterrent and provide a legal basis for pursuing unpaid invoices.

Invoice Financing and Factoring:

Exporters can explore invoice financing options such as factoring or invoice discounting. These solutions allow exporters to obtain immediate cash flow by selling their unpaid invoices to a third-party at a discount. While it may involve a cost, it provides exporters with readily available funds to sustain their operations.

Trade Credit Insurance:

Consider obtaining trade credit insurance to protect against non-payment risks. Trade credit insurance policies can provide coverage for unpaid invoices due to insolvency, bankruptcy, or political risks. Having this insurance in place safeguards exporters from potential losses and gives them confidence in extending credit to buyers.

Alternative Dispute Resolution:

In case of payment disputes, exporters can explore alternative dispute resolution methods, such as mediation or arbitration, to resolve issues more efficiently and cost-effectively than traditional litigation. AECCI's legal wing specializes in resolving payment disputes and tackling legal complexities. Our experienced legal advisors and Arbitrators offer dispute resolution services, ensuring timely and cost-effective resolutions for exporters facing unpaid invoices. These processes offer a neutral platform for negotiation and can expedite the resolution of unpaid invoice disputes.

Conclusion:

Unpaid invoices pose significant challenges for exporters, affecting their financial stability and impeding growth. By leveraging the expertise and resources offered by AECCI, exporters can overcome the challenges associated with unpaid invoices. Through robust credit management practices, clear contractual agreements, invoice financing options, trade credit insurance, and alternative dispute resolution methods, exporters can enhance their financial stability, improve cash flow, and mitigate the risks of unpaid invoices. AECCI stands ready to support exporters on their journey to success in the international market.

By proactively addressing these challenges, exporters can foster better cash flow management, enhance their competitiveness, and sustain their growth in the international market.
